difficulties; but, from the fact that the combined fleets of England and France have passed the Dardanelles and anchored before Constantinople, there are increased appreensions felt for the final solution of pending trouble be tween Turkey and Russia. Influenced in some degree by the threatening aspect of the Eastern question, the principal English and Continental markets have been greatly agitated. Cotton at Liverpool has still further declined from an eighth to a quarter of a penny per pound, while bread-stuffs have still further advanced, and closed on Friday very firm, and with an upward tendency. Flour is quoted from 1s. to 2s. higher since the Arabia's news. There is increased stringency in the London money parket, and the rates of discount have been still further advanced. The screw steamer Lady Eglinton, from Quebec, arrived at Liverpool early on Thursday morning, 29th ult.

On the 25th and 26th September, a violent storm prevailed along the British and Dutch coasts, occasioning wanted along the British and Putter coasts, occasional much less of life and property. The iron steamer Cammeston, bound from Hull to Hamburg, was also lost, with several lives.

The American packet ship Neva put back to Liverpool, and went ashore in the Mersey. Several passengers, in attempting to reach the pier, were drowned. The ship Joseph Walker, from New York, sustained considerable damage in the Mersey. The American, for San Francisco, went ashore near Southport. The Shooting Star lost her topmast. The Caroline, and Intrinsic, for Prince Edward Island; William Ward, and Hinda, from Quebec; and Stephen Glover, from St. John, were more or less injured.

The ship Rhein, from Hamburg for New York, with two hundred passengers, had put into Portsmouth, with cholera on board.

The Eastern Question.

NO NEW DEVELOPMENTS—THE COMBINED FLEET AT CONSTANTINOFILE—REPORT OF A PROTEST BY RUSSIA, AUSTRIA, AND PRUSSIA, TO THE MOVEMENT OF THE NAVAL PORCES, ETC., ETC. The Eastern question shows some new features o alarm, but as yet no acts of hostility have been committed.

It has been already mentioned that the Ulemans had presented a threatening address to the Sultan, calling on him to declare war against the Russians, or to resign. Inquiry has proved that the Ulemans in this matter were in-law. They persist, however, that war was demanded by the Koran and by the circumstances of the empire. The Sultan refused to sign the war declaration they declared against Russia, and there was a possibility of a riot; the French and Brt. sh ambassadors, therefore, sent for assistance to protect the Sultan and Christian residents. Four steam frigates-two French and two British -immediately passed the Dardanelles and came to anchor before Constantinople, where they now remain. The Eritish vessels were the Niger and Tiger, and the French the Gemer and Mozedon. They were all under command of Rear Admiral Barbier Detina. Besides these the Admiral has under his orders the British ships Retribution, Fury and Caradore, and four French frigates. The Daily News of the 29th, states that Admiral Dundas has received orders from the British Admiralty to move, with the whole English fleet, from Besika to Constan

The rejection by the Czar of the Turkish amendments, was known at Constantinople on the 19th, but the expected crisis did not occur, and the Ministry, at the date of the last letters, remained without change.

A Vienna letter, of the 21st, states that Lord Westmore-land had received instructions from his government to in-sist that the proposed declaration that the Vienna note con-tains nothing dangerous to the sovereignty of the Sultan, should be drawn up in the form of a protocol, as, after the interpretation given by Russia to the note, England might invite, but could not press, the Sultan to acopt it. In reply to this notification, the Austrian Plenipotentiary is said to have informed the French and British representatives that, from the position the Western cabinets had taken, it is now impossible for Austria to assent to any collective declaration in the form of a protocol. Confirming this, Vienna correspondents state that the most perfect accord existed between Austria and Russia with respect to Turkey.

existed between Austria and Russia with respect to Turkey.

The Cologne Gazette further intimates that Austria is endeavoring to quarrel with Turkey, under the pretext of indempity due to Austrian subjects.

The Trieste Gazette states that Russia demands the Province of Paviston (?) in payment of expouses in occupying the principalities. This province possesses valuable mines and forests, and commands Barkistan and Circassia.

Confident expectations are expressed in Europe that American privateers will not accept letters of marque from Russia.

Russia.

The Russians had sent forward detachments to Kaletal and Guirgebe, which latter place they appear zow to make their centre of operations.

The Turks continued to erect defensive works, and all points from Varna to Nicombia were fortified.

Fire.—Last night about 11 o'clock, a fire broke cut at 49 Ann street, the basement and front iloco of which are occupied by Solomon & Co., assayers and gold refiners; the second floor by Mr. Fenn, an ivery turner; and the third and fourth floors by B. Sheridan, printing press maker and machinist. The fire originated in the second floor, and shortly extended to the third floor, both of which were con pletly burnt through, as well as part of the fourth. The fire lasted above an hour before it was extinguished, and a considerable arount of damage was done, but the exact amount could not be ascertained at the time. Science was insured, but his loss, if any, must have been by water, as the fire did not appear to have truched his part of the premises. The adjoining house, (No. 45.) occupied by H. Long & Brothers, book publishers, was flooded by water, although no damage has been one by fire.

MERCASTIE LIBRARY ASSCINION.—A course of six lectures, an the Posts of the Niusteenth Ceatury, will soon be delivered before the members of this institution, by Oliver Wendall Holmes.

VISITING MILITARY.—The Puttsville National Light Infantry will arrive in this city to morrow afternoon on a visit. They leave Philadelphia in the morning and will arrive about 3½ P. M. They stop at the Battery Hotel. The uniform of this company is the same as the Continentals of this city, and they are commanded by Captain Pott. The Pottsville Brass Band will accompany them. Will some of our city companies show them around Gotham?

Will some of our city companies show them around Gotlam?

Drowned.—On Tuesday night George Swingle, a hand on board of the boat F. Leonard, lying at pier No. 5 East river, fell overboard and was drowned. It appears that he was in company with a woman named Mary Ann Kennedy, whom he was taking to the boat, and in attempting to hand her on board, the tide being low, he lost his balance and fell over the side. From information obtained of the captain, it appears that he was perfectly sober and never known to be under the influence of liquor. The woman has been detained to await the action of the coroner, when the body shall have been recovered.

Want of Court Accommodation.—Yesterday, in the Superier Court, before Hon. Judge Campbell, the jury were obliged to remain in the open lobbies of the City Hall to deilberate upon a verdit, in consequence of tar rooms appropriated for their use being occupied by telegraph boys. At the last June term, the rooms were presented, by the jurors empannelled in that court, as being unfit for use, in consequence of the rive leng occupied by the colored sweepers of the hall as lodging rooms. We hope those having charge of the matter will see that "Justice be done, though the heavens fall."

MR. POWELL'S PAINTING OF DE SOTO DISCOVERING

THE MISSISSIPPI.

If the folly and meanness which seem to have been the ruling characteristics of the American Art Union have produced no other beneficial fruit, they have at least reperated to give a certain degree of notoriety to the last work of a young American artist. The injustice attempted against Mr. Powell has given quite a celebrity to his painting of De Sote. It is de erved on higher grounds. Talent of no common order is revealed in the work; and promise of still nobler flights towards fame hereafter. The moment chosen by the artist is that on which De Soto, at the head of his retinue of warriors and attendants, first reaches the overhanging shere of the "Father of Waters," and stands in mute rapture at the overwhelming prospect. The figure of the noble exile, in the centre of the work, is boldly and judicously execuped. His expression is commanding ; one can read in his brow and features the tremendous emotions to which had a prey. On the right, between him and the river, are grouped several indians—some in terrilled astonishment at the approach of the stranger—others overcoming their fears to indulge their curiosity. The play of these feelings on the Indian face is well portugad in the two erect figures near the tent. On the rame side, in the foreground, a pious monk is execting a rule cross, made from two trees of the forest. His expression and that of his assistants is happy. In the rear behiad be Soto, one is immediately struck with the life-like representation of the friar on herseback, who, with hands clasped and face uplifted to heaven is obviously retarring thanks to his field for the auspicious termination, of the expectation. The wounded soldier, too, binding up his leg with bands of cloth, is executed with vivid tuntifulness.

Were one inclined to be savere, one might possibly object to certain mechanical portions of the week. The horses are not drawn with the same accuracy as the other figures. The neck of the beast on which De Sotorides, the forequarters of the soule bestrode by the friar, and several portions of the abler four-footed animal, might be improved. Other little blemishes in the design may be detected by a close observer. But one of these are so glaring as to may the general effect of the whole. Few can contemplate hir Tewell's week without a feeling of lively admiration; and glad are we that the public of New York have an opportunity of seeing it before it is finally removed to Washington.

On the floor of the gallery where it is exhibited the visiter may likewise see several portraits without frames, by the same artist. They evince considerable talent, and deserve a more respectful position. first reaches the overhauging shere of the "Father of Waters," and stands in mute rapture at the overwhelming

WASHINGTON.

Contradiction of the Rumors of a Coup d'Etat, by Santa Anna. TO THE EDITOR OF THE NEW YORK HERALD.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11, 1853. Sir-Your paper being a journal of world-wide circulation, condested with great ability, and always made effectively interesting and amusing to the general reader, its remarks on public men and national affairs, native and foreign, are, with appropriate reason and justice, considered of the highest weight and importance to all patriotic intelligence interested in their purport. Under these circumstances, it is essential to truth. and otherwise particularly desirable, that a prominent error in the HERALD's views should be corrected, having reference to a distinguished personage in a neighbor republic, calculated to give occasion to a public doubt, here and in Mexico, of the intimate warmth of the mutual friendship of that distinguished personage and the distinguished personage ac redited by him near to the seat of the government at Washington, and calculated, also, to impair, if it were possible, the highly valued reputation of the former with his fellow citizens, who unanimously invited him from a peaceful retirement to take upon himself the arduous cares and roubles o quelling the anarchy which was destroying the very existence of his country. In the HERALD of yesterday (10th of October) is is stated that "General Almonte was dangerous in Mexico, and that General Santa Anna on that ac-count made use of a stroke of policy in sending him count made use of a stroke of policy in sending him to this country."

If it be intended to infer, from the foregoing paragraph, that either General Santa Anna or General Almonte are not on the most friendly footing, and fully sognisant of the governmental and private views each of the other, the Harand is hereby, on distinct authority, respectfully but emphatically informed that it disseminates an erroneous assurantion.

It was, of coarse, as the Herald admits, "a stroke of policy" in General Santa Anna accrediting General Almonte, he having been accredited near to the seat of this government previously, and being extensively acquainted, not only with the jurisprudence and language of the United States, but also with all past differences, as well as with all present unadjusted questions, between the two governments. With respect to the other statement of the Herald—to the effect that "General Santa Auna intends to declare himself Emperor of Mexico, and that he intends to support his coup d'état by the presence, sed, if need be, action of armed troops—" it is altogether a humorously invented faceteous in rendo of the Herald's sublimity of wit. There is not an iota of probability in: It is altogether pure, improbable, imaginative surmise. The ill fate of Iturbide is still free in the memory of the Mexican people.

The Herrie humorously observes that it is a political axiom well understood by distinguished Mexicans, that "no act is commenced without a motive." Granted. The probability of the alleged intention of General Santa Anna is made prominently ridiculous, then, by the axiom brought forward to sustain it; there would be no "motive" for General Santa Anna to perform such on act.

there would be no "motive" for General Santa Anna to perform such an act.

The forces of Mexico are already under the plastic command of General Santa Anna, and the change of the name of President to one less honorable, and less palatable to the enlightened portions of the community, is quite unlikely to be deemed necessary by him for the strengthening of the nationality, and thereby diminishing the strong support which he at present meets from all classes interested in the peace and prosperity of the republic.

The undersigned has watched the public course of General Santa Anna for a period of twenty years, and defended him under all the trying effects from causes and vicissitudes of his eventual governmenta career; and the uncersigned, the tried friend of Mexico, tells the Mexican nation to hold on to Santa Anna—that he is the only man at this momentou.

Mexico, tells the Mexican nation to hold on to Santi Anna—that he is the only man at this momentous crisis that can possibly sustain their country during a proposed vigorous adjustment of all its present internal and external difficulties. His Excellency the Mexican Minister coincides in the fullest and frankest manner with the undersigned in that opinion.

The Mexican Minister, in addition to his high opinion of Gen. Santa Anna's zealous patriotism and indefatigable efforts to defend the ri, hts of his country, and to see it raised to the highest degree of prosperity, strength and power, thinks, also, no man better calculated than Gen. Santa Anna to discover and appreciate the necessary duties calculated to establish on a firm basis an open, agreeable and friendly understanding with the United States. That is Gen. Santa Anna's principal object. He That is Gen. Santa Anna's principal object. He will no doubt be able to accomplish it by the firmness of his character, and especially so if his views are justly comprehended and duly reciprocated by the American government. The undersigned does not doubt but that the time is not far off when we will see Mexico developing, by the side of the United States, all her immense natural resources, to the advantage and welfare of herself and the United States. With friendly respect, George b. Stevens.

With friendly respect,
